Kumar (Naseeruddin Shah) and his servant, Chandrashekhar (Om Puri), are on the run from the law in India. They settle down in a small village where Kumar starts up a paint store. He meets beautiful Radha (Madhuri Dixit Nene) and they get married. But Radha's family expects her to marry Raja (Manoj Bajpai), the son of a wealthy businessman, who is not interested in her elder sister, Sheela (Pooja Bharati), because she is dark skinned and not "marriageable". Will Kumar be able to live with this inferiority complex?
